Sept 2022

Here there be dragons

Free

In Memory of Elizabeth Dennis.

On Saturday 17th September from 3 p.m. to 5 30 p.m., in the Callow room of Minsterley Parish Hall, we of Holy Trinity Church and probably many others will be together celebrating (at last) the life of the late Elizabeth Dennis. We shall be remembering her not least as our organist and choir mistress. The celebration will include hymn tunes composed by her and sung by our small choir, but also a work dedicated to Elizabeth by Richard Duncan, conductor of the Shrewsbury Consort of Recorders (with which Elizabeth played for many years), performed on this occasion by some of its members. Light refreshments will be available, and entry free. Come and join us in honouring this much loved and gifted lady, my wife who served our church unstintingly for some forty-seven years. All are welcome!
Michael Dennis

Most of us will have returned from holidays, visits and excursions.

Street plans, maps, atlases and sat navs will have been used to full effect. This month we take a look at place names, explorers and map makers.

deadline for October September 21st.

What's in a name?

I was brought up in the West Midlands, (we called it the Black Country then) and was used to good solid names for towns; Wolverhampton, Wednesfield, and West Bromwich. We moved when I was older to Wirral (we called it Cheshire then) to find more substantial names in Wallasey, Woodchurch and West Kirby – what a lot of 'W's.

All was well until while at university I received a letter from my parents to say we were all moving to Stiperstones – how did you pronounce that? many still don't know. It was near Snailbeach but nowhere near the sea, not far from Shrewsbury which they have been arguing over the pronunciation of since Norman times and then someone tells me we are going to Salop!

My reliance on assured town names was to be unsettled. Road signs were popping up with short descriptive names such as The Bog, White Grit, The Gravels, The Nind, Frog's Gutter, Squilver and Bent Lawnt (was it ever straight?).

Walking my future wife home from the Inn I was to be acquainted with another local naming strategy; use the name of the people who live or lived there. We left the 'Beach Pub' in Perkin's Beach by Mytton's Beach and made our way up Francis Flat, passing through the darkly named 'Black Hole' to reach Owen's Corner. Descending to the Crow's Nest Susan pointed out Peggy's Hill and Cook's Dingle.. A long climb then up the Machinous Bank, later to be described to me as Machine House, along Shop Lane - but where was the shop? - to her house at Upper Works.

I also soon found out that not only were place names named after local people but local people adopted their address as a part of their own name; Potters the Wood, Jim Williams the Coppice, or Joe Lewis the Roundhill.

Lead miners from Roman times have left their feelings for the land in some of the hard village names and everywhere there is a sense of history recent and distant. I can now look at the map and the road signs and rest easy.

Learning for fun and friendship, for the retired and semi-retired

Steel Magnolias by Robert Harling

The Abbey Foregate (SURC) Drama Group are glad to announce our new production of Robert Harling's 'Steel Magnolias'. This play is a brilliant depiction of friendship that manages to be witty, warm, uplifting, and, just when you thought you were safe, utterly heartbreaking. It's also frequently laugh-out-loud funny. It captures this bittersweetness and taps into some fundamental truths about the strength that women derive from one another, regardless of their age or social background.

Where have all the houses gone?
These are two images taken from Shropshire 6 inch scale maps of 1903.

They show plenty of industrial buildings, many of which remain in some shape or form. They also show however how few domestic properties lay along the main road. In Stiperstones the homes were predominately up the Mytton and Perkins Beach Dingles. The community was more commonly known as Perkins Beach and the pub as
'The Beach'. Beach seems to be a derivative of the Welsh 'bache' meaning the valley of a small stream.

The Snailbeach map is less clear but apart from Snailbeach Farm and Prospect House there seems only a spattering of houses along the road.

John Cabot

In 1497 Italian-born Cabot sailed from Bristol with merchant backing and 18 crew in search of a westerly route to Asia (quicker than heading east), hoping to lay hands on gold, spices and other luxuries. Success would enhance England's position as a major trading center. He actually stumbled across Newfoundland—he wasn't to know it would be in the way; Europeans didn't yet grasp the existence of mainland America. Cabot's adventure made him famous, and Henry VII granted him an annual pension. He sailed again the following year and vanished, his fate unknown.

Notes from the hill

With the warm weather seen this year it has certainly been good for making hay and all of ours is safely gathered in and we even have some to spare if anyone wants to buy some small bales. However, the hay making this year has not been without some excitement.

We always wait until after mid-July to make hay to avoid damaging any nesting birds and often leave it a bit longer to allow more flowers to set seed, however this year we had the added complication of Curlew Country's head-started birds being released close by. With images of the worst scenario, of all of their carefully reared birds hunkering down in our hay fields as cutting started, we had our meadows cut as early as possible after mid-July so that there wouldn't be any casualties.

We also had a number of people wanting some of the hay to be used as green hay. This is where it is taken to other sites, straight after cutting, to drop seed and help other meadows become flower rich, and on top of that I had a few scything courses and a scything competition where we needed some grass to cut.

This staggered cutting of the hay was nice to do as it leaves some of the later flowering plants to set seed and this would have been the case in the days when farmers used to cut their meadows by scythe and work around the weather. Today with modern machinery a hay meadow is cut in minutes, whereas in the past it could be over a whole summer. At home, in the meadow that was once my lawn, I have delayed cutting it because I have been seeing a small flock of goldfinches enjoying the knapweed seeds every evening and I didn't want to remove the food that they were appreciating so much.

Goldfinch

Gatekeeper

This is true for many plants that we tend to tidy away at this time of year as they become tall and dry, but if you can leave an area of the garden untidy over winter it can be a great home for all kinds of wildlife, from pupating moths and butterflies to voles and frogs.

As I write this we are in the grip of another heatwave. This has been good for some of the butterflies with gatekeepers, ringlets and skippers being commonly seen, and we have even rediscovered a small colony of grayling at the north of the hill.

The hot weather, however, brings with it the worry of wildfires. These hot spells seem to be an increasing trend and I urge everyone to be vigilant against fires and barbeques and to ring the emergency services if there are any signs of fire on or near the hill.

Rea Valley Foodbank is a newly constituted organisation that has been established to provide food to Minsterley, Pontesbury and surrounding villages. Launching on Tuesday September 27th at Holy Trinity Minsterley from 10-12 and every Tuesday morning thereafter; and every Thursday morning at St George's Pontesbury, we will be working in partnership with Foodbank Plus, guaranteeing there will always be enough food however many customers the foodbank serves.

Rea Valley Foodbank has arisen out of a partnership between five local churches (Anglican, Congregationalist, and Baptist) and other supporters, including Good Neighbours, Pontesbury. We have a wonderful pool of colleagues who will staff the foodbank, undertaking a variety of different roles. However, we do need your support. You can make food donations at any of the following locations:

- The Coop Pontesbury
- Holy Trinity Minsterley
- Hope Church
- Hignetts
- Pontesbury Baptist Church
- Pontesbury Congregational Church
- Minsterley Methodist Chapel
- St George's Pontesbury

We are seeking other locations to make donating food as straightforward as possible. There is an up-to-date list which is refreshed weekly at <https://www.barnabascommunityprojects.org/shrewsburyfoodbank>

We are also seeking financial partners, those who will take out a small standing order to ensure our long-term viability. For details as to how to do this, please contact our Treasurer, Jonathan Brown, at jonathan.starfish@hotmail.com Independent foodbanks only survive through the generosity of their supporters and the hard work of their volunteers.

If you have any questions about Rea Valley Foodbank, please contact its Chair, Revd Greg Smith at rectorpontstip@gmail.com

Holy Trinity Minsterley is looking for a volunteer to take on the role of treasurer. The role requires some familiarity with accounting and an ability to use computerised spreadsheets. Full training will be provided, with the present Treasurer willing to shadow the role as long as required. An honorarium is payable. For a job description and for an informal discussion about this role, please contact Greg Smith at rectorpontstip@gmail.com

The first written evidence that refers to Shrewsbury dates back to 901. It refers to Shrewsbury as 'Scrobbesbyrig' which indicates that it was then a fortified settlement with 'Scrobbes' most likely referring to a scrub covered hill, and 'bryig' suggesting the presence of fortifications.

However, the Normans who ruled England after 1066 found both "Scrobbesbyrig" and "Scrobbesbyrigscir" difficult to pronounce so they softened them to "Salopesberia" and "Salopescira". Salop is the abbreviation of these.

When a council for the county was set up in 1888, it was called "Salop County Council".

The name was never popular, with Ludlow MP Sir Jasper More raising an amendment to the 1972 Local Government Bill to rename the county "Shropshire"- at the time the council itself opposed the change, although later, in 1980, would exercise its power to legally change the name of the county.

The Times noted in a 19 February 1980 article about the name change that "there was no record of why the name Salop County Council was adopted". The decision to make the change was taken on 1 March 1980, at a special meeting of the council, with 48 votes in favour versus five against. It came into effect on 1 April.

Another reason why Salop was unfavourable was the fact that if you add the letter 'E' and make it Salope, this is a French word which means 'Bitch' or 'Loose Woman'.

The term "Salopian", derived from "Salop", is still used to mean "from Shropshire". Salop can also mean the county town, Shrewsbury, and in historical records Shropshire is described as "the county of Salop" and Shrewsbury as "the town of Salop". There is a reference in the Encyclopædia Britannica (1948) to Shropshire being called Sloppesbury, and this name being shortened to Salop.

Shrewsbury Town football supporters seem to prefer to chant Salop than Shrewsbury, with many away fans being understandably confused.

The Latin motto of Floreat Salopia (may Shropshire flourish) was originally used by the borough of Shrewsbury, and was adopted in 1896 by Salop (or Shropshire) County Council when they received a grant of a coat of arms. The motto is now used in a number of other emblems associated with the county.

Mappa Mundi

Great world maps were an English speciality in the Middle Ages and were drawn on cloth, walls or animal skin. Only the Hereford World Map – Mappa Mundi – has survived complete and is believed to be the world's largest medieval map. The map housed in the cathedral is a unique medieval treasure. Measuring 1.59 x 1.34 metres (5'2" by 4'4"), the map is constructed on a single sheet of vellum (calf skin). Scholars believe it was made around the year 1300 and shows the history, geography and destiny of humanity as it was understood in Christian Europe in the late thirteenth and early fourteenth centuries.

These large maps were drawn in great detail but could only be read by people who spoke Norman French, the language of the literate secular elite. The Mappa Mundi interpreted the world in spiritual as well as geographical terms, and included Biblical illustrations as well as portrayals of Classical learning and legend. As pictorial descriptions of the outside world, these impressive maps were also educational; they were used for teaching natural history and classical legends, and reinforcing religious beliefs.

There is little doubt that the map was created in Lincoln as the depiction of Lincoln Cathedral on the map is so true to life. Lincoln was already a renowned centre of learning in the 13th century: its library had contained a world map and the chronicler and map-maker Gerald of Wales had lived there prior to his death in 1223. It is generally believed that the map was created in the late 1290s and written in English Gothic script by one person alone.

So who made the Hereford Mappa Mundi? The map is attributed to one 'Richard of Haldringham or Lafford' (Holdingham and Sleaford in Lincolnshire) who was also known as Richard de Bello. Whilst the map was drawn in Lincoln, it was almost certainly in Hereford by 1330.

It is very probable that the Hereford map was largely copied from another, older map. The Roman Emperor Augustus appears on the Mappa Mundi and it is known that he charged his son-in-law Agrippa with the creation of a world map that emphasized the extent of the Roman Empire in the first century A.D. Agrippa's lost map, along with later ones of the Roman Empire, are likely to form the basis of the Hereford map, along with medieval additions, illustrations and Christian symbolism.

The inhabited part of the world as it was known then, roughly equivalent to Europe, Asia and North Africa, is mapped within a Christian framework. Jerusalem is in the centre, and east is at the top. East, where the sun rises, was where medieval Christians looked for the second coming of Christ. The British Isles is at the bottom on the left. At the centre of the Mappa Mundi is Jerusalem, the centre of the Christian world. The continents are illustrated with drawings of cities and towns, classical mythology (the Minotaur is depicted on the map), Biblical events, plants, animals (including camels, elephants and lions), birds (including parrots and a phoenix) and people. The top of the map shows Christ sitting at the Day of Judgement, flanked by angels.

Bartholomew Gosnold (c. 1572-1607)

Gosnold, a Suffolk councilman, lawyer, explorer and privateer, embarked on two great expeditions. In 1602 he crossed the Atlantic in Concord, chartered by Raleigh among others, with the intention of establishing a colony in Northern Virginia (New England). In the process he pioneered a direct route due west from the Azores, arriving at Cape Elizabeth in Maine. He then followed the coast to anchor in York Harbor, before progressing to and naming Cape Cod.

In the Doge's Palace

Maps in history

There are few things that evoke the romanticism of adventure quite like a map – especially old maps. Full of exotic names (Persia, Abyssinia, Rhodesia!) and olde worlde lettering, they are reminiscent of a time when men sacrificed their lives for adventure and exploration.

They encourage one to sail away from the safe harbour and, in the words of Mark Twain, to explore, to dream, to discover, and to go past the sign that says “Here there be dragons”

The hallways of the Doge's Palace in Venice are hung with early maps, each one showing more detail as the great Venetian seafarers ventured further and afield. The discoveries made by the great European seafarers would be later used by a new breed of map makers.

Gerardus Mercator was a mathematician rather than a seafarer but his method of map making, and his world map are still with us today. Mercator imagined the world as a cylinder rolled out flat and so his lines of longitude are parallel and do not meet at the poles. This is why Greenland looks the size of Africa on his 1569 world map is both a work of genius and controversy.

MERCATOR PROJECTION VS THE TRUE SIZE OF COUNTRIES

@neilrkaye

This is the map we are familiar with from school and in our atlases (Mercator coined this word). However it makes the northern countries USA, Canada, Greenland and Russia look much bigger than they are and those nations around the equator much smaller. In fact the USA would nearly fit into the Sahara desert, the sub-continent of India would stretch from Norway to North Africa and Australia is larger than the whole of Europe. The darker areas on this map show the actual sizes of the countries.

Unlock the value of your home and enjoy the retirement you've always dreamed of

As a homeowner, your property is probably your biggest asset, but have you ever considered releasing some of the tax-free cash tied up in it? Best of all, you can use the cash lump sum however you wish.

If you're a UK homeowner aged 55 or over, with a property value of at least £70,000, then a lifetime mortgage could be right for you.

Arrange a no obligation appointment today.

Call 07974 250389

This is a lifetime mortgage. To understand the features and risks, please ask for a personalised illustration. Check that this mortgage will meet your needs if you want to move or sell your home or you want your family to inherit it. If you are in any doubt, seek independent advice.

All Kinds of Mortgages is an Appointed Representative of The Right Mortgage Ltd, which is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. Registered in England and Wales no. 08130498. A fee may be charged for Lifetime equity release advice. The exact amount will depend on your circumstances, but we estimate this will be £995 on completion.

Captain James Cook (1728-79)

Captain James Cook really made headway in the Pacific, with three momentous voyages in HMS Endeavour that would see him chart that ocean, opening up New Zealand and Australia to later settlement. Over more than eight years, he recorded previously unknown islands, radically changed perceptions of world geography and set a new standard for maps.

Shropshire is a place of many unusual and unique things, from architecture to famous people - but non are as strange as some of the street names.

Dog in the Lane, Telford

Don't worry we don't actually think there are any dogs in the lane to speak of - but there are a few houses.

Grope Lane, Shrewsbury

It's not hard to imagine how Grope Lane would have been in medieval times.

Some say the name originated from the fact that folk had to 'grope' their way along it, but the the more popular version of the story is that the lane was once a 'Red Light' district.

Bogey Lane, Pontesbury

This is the location of the Mary Webb School, as well as Pontesbury Primary School. Don't think that has any relevance to the naming of the road through.

The Dana, Shrewsbury

The Dana is one of the more intriguing Shrewsbury place names. It starts as a walkway from Castle Street, continues round the Castle and across the railway, and then becomes a street skirting the old prison until it merges with Victoria Street. The Dana is named after Rev Edmund Dana (1739-1823), who was Vicar of Wroxeter.

Thieves Lane, Shrewsbury

Thieves Lane followed the line of an old Roman road and is named so because it was said to be a way for robbers to avoid the main turnpike roads.

Featherbed Lane, Shrewsbury

Featherbed Lane is one of Shrewsbury's oldest roads, but despite its history it is now just another busy road with a mixture of homes and businesses along its stretch.

Dr. David Livingstone (1813–73)

“Dr. Livingstone, I presume?” Henry Morton Stanley, sent by the New York Herald, made the famously courteous enquiry on meeting David Livingstone who had set off to Africa in 1866 and had been unheard of since.

In fact, the trip was the intrepid explorer-missionary’s third venture into “darkest Africa,” as it was then widely known: travels that filled in more gaps on the continent’s map than anyone had previously done. Livingstone furthered scientific discovery and paved the way for British colonization in east Africa.

A BETTER DEAL FOR SHROPSHIRE ON FUEL

Whether we like it or not, the vast majority of us have to use a car to get around in rural Shropshire. We need them to go to work, do the shopping and take the kids to school. Public transport is very limited and the Westminster Government has turned down the Shropshire bid for funding an improved network.

When I can afford it I would very much like to buy an electric or hybrid car but, for the moment, like most people, I will have to make do with a conventional car for now. Unfortunately, we have always suffered from higher than average fuel prices in our rural areas - it's always cheaper in Shrewsbury! - which have been made much, much worse by recent events.

Some rural areas in the North and Scotland have benefited from a 'rural subsidy' on fuel for the last decade and there are increasing calls for this to be extended to all rural areas. I am very grateful to Helen Morgan, the MP for North Shropshire, for her efforts in the House of Commons on this score. My colleague Cllr Ruth Houghton and I also successfully moved a motion at the last Shropshire Council meeting (which was passed unanimously) asking the Council to lobby the Government to extend this subsidy to our rural petrol station.

COST OF LIVING AND ENERGY SAVING

Given the challenging times we live in there are some useful sources of help and advice on this link: <https://www.shropshire.gov.uk/cost-of-living-help/>

Also, Lightfoot Enterprise of Bishop's Castle offers free energy assessments on your home (I've had one done recently!). See <https://lightfootenterprises.org/>

The food bank in Bishops Castle will also help people in our area if needed. It is a confidential service.

EMAIL ROUND-ROBIN

Council upgrades means that sometimes people fall off my email list. if you have not received an email from me for a while please drop me an email and I will put you back on the list.

Captain Robert Falcon Scott, CVO, (1868 - 1912) was a Royal Navy officer and explorer who led two expeditions to the Antarctic regions: the Discovery expedition of 1901-1904 and the ill-fated Terra Nova expedition of 1910-1913. On the first expedition, he set a new southern record by marching to latitude 82°S and discovered the Antarctic Plateau, on which the South Pole is located. On the second venture, Scott led a party of five which reached the South Pole on 17 January 1912, less than five weeks after Amundsen's South Pole expedition.

A planned meeting with supporting dog teams from the base camp failed, despite Scott's written instructions, and at a distance of 162 miles (261 km) from their base camp at Hut Point and approximately 12.5 miles (20 km) from the next depot, Scott and his companions died.

Rear-Admiral Sir John Franklin (16 April 1786 - 11 June 1847) was a British Royal Navy officer and Arctic explorer. After serving in wars against Napoleonic France and the United States, he led two expeditions into the Canadian Arctic and through the islands of the Arctic Archipelago, in 1819 and 1825, and served as Lieutenant-Governor of Van Diemen's Land from 1839 to 1843. During his third and final expedition, an attempt to traverse the Northwest Passage in 1845, Franklin's ships became icebound off King William Island in what is now Nunavut, where he died in June 1847. The icebound ships were abandoned ten months later and the entire crew died, from causes such as starvation, hypothermia, and scurvy.

A local farmer was driving his John Deere tractor along the road with a trailer load of fertiliser. Tim a little boy of eight was playing in his yard when he saw the farmer and asked, 'What've you got in your trailer?'

'Manure,' Farmer Evans replied.

'What are you going to do with it?' asked Tim.

'Put it on my strawberries,' answered the farmer.

Tim replied, 'You ought to come and eat with us, we put ice-cream on our strawberries.'

Paul, a jogger, is running down a country road and is startled when a horse yells at him, 'Hey-come over here buddy.'

Paul is stunned but still runs over to the fence where the horse is standing and asks, 'Were you talking to me?'

The horse replies, 'Sure was, man I've got a problem. I won the Grand National a few years ago and this farmer bought me and now all I do is pull a plough and I'm sick of it. Why don't you run up to the house and offer him £5,000 to buy me. I'll make you some money because I can still run.'

Paul thought to himself, 'Wow, a talking horse.' Pound signs started appearing in his head. So he runs to the house and the old farmer is sitting on the porch.

Paul tells the farmer, 'Hey man I'll give you £5,000 for that old broken down nag you've got in the field.'

The farmer replies, 'Son you can't believe anything that horse says. He's never even been to Aintree.'

Two Shropshire yokels were on the train heading homewards towards Shrewsbury, when one of them noticed some cows.

'What a lovely bunch of cows.' he remarked.

'Not a bunch, herd,' his mate replied.

'Heard of what?'

'Herd of cows.'

'Of course I've heard of cows.'

'No, a cow herd.'

'What do I care what a cow heard.'

I have no secrets to keep from a cow.'

Sir Ernest Henry Shackleton (1874 - 1922)

Shackleton set out to cross the Antarctica from sea to sea, via the pole., the Imperial Trans-Antarctic Expedition, 1914-1917. Disaster struck this expedition when its ship, Endurance, became trapped in pack ice and was slowly crushed before the shore parties could be landed. The crew escaped by camping on the sea ice until it disintegrated, then by launching the lifeboats to reach Elephant Island and ultimately South Georgia Island, a stormy ocean voyage of 830 miles and Shackleton's most famous exploit.

Use a bowl in the sink when washing fruit, vegetables or dishes. You can then use the waste water to water your plants.

Fill a jug of water and put it in the fridge for when you want a cool drink.

Turn off the tap when you clean your teeth. A running tap uses up to nine litres of water a minute.

If possible, take a shower instead of a bath. A five-minute shower uses about 40 litres of water. This is about half the volume of a standard bath.

Think about fitting a water butt to collect rainwater off your roof. Water butts usually store about 200 litres of water. As well as being better for watering your plants, using rainwater in the garden reduces the amount of treated water you use.
